

Leaders Can Save Up to 22% on AT&T Wireless Service

Union Plus partners with AT&T to provide the best deals for union members. AT&T, which employs around 40,000 members of the Communications Workers of America (CWA), understands the needs of union members. Not only does AT&T provide union members a 15 percent discount on select monthly plans, but the company provides discounts to union employees and local offices as well.

Union employees, those receiving a paycheck from a union, can save up to 18 percent on their individual wireless plans or for the first phone in a family plan. Employees can switch to AT&T to receive the discount, or enroll in the employee discount program if AT&T is already their wireless provider.

Union locals can save up to 22 percent on qualified monthly service charges through an AFL-CIO negotiated discount. Discounts cover a wide range of services, including teleconferencing and internet service. To access this discount, union leaders should contact the Union Plus AT&T representative, Collieth Clarke, at att@unionplus.org or call 1-800-472-2005 ext. 888.

Union Plus looks forward to helping unions and their employees increase their savings through the AT&T service.

AT&T Boosts Network Coverage

Union members who switch to AT&T for their wireless coverage will find that their network is faster, reports four studies.

reveal that AT&T is between four and six Mbps faster than Verizon and T-Mobile 4G networks, and up to triple the speed of Sprint. Currently, AT&T is in second place for coverage, but is expected to match Verizon's by the end of 2014. By switching to AT&T, not only will union members be saving 15 percent off their phone bill, but they will also be switching to the fastest network in the U.S.

RootMetrics, Consumer Reports, PC Mag and PCWorldwide/TechHive have concluded that AT&T's 4G LTE network is the fastest network in the U.S. The studies
